

METALS INDUSTRY

The metals industry - which includes iron and steel producers, foundries, non-ferrous metallurgy, and metal materials and metal products - has used our components and plants to extract, dedust and clean exhaust gases since the late 1970s.

In addition to workplace safety, the primary focus here is generally on new challenges with respect to energy savings, increases in efficiency and resource recovery.

More than ever, our biggest goal is a complete, single-source approach to problem solving that combines a customer-oriented approach and turnkey implementation with an integrated system solution.
